
About Us

Cardo Systems, Inc., formed in 2001 and headquartered in Pittsburgh, PA. is an established world leader in the field of wireless Bluetooth communications. Our award-winning products integrate state of the art technology and features, with the latest innovative audio design. Our in-house lab is operated by a highly qualified engineering staff that has had many years of in-depth experience with Bluetooth, RF and audio transmission. During the last 4 years Cardo has submitted several patents applications, some of which have already been granted.

Among others, Cardo has been:

- The first to offer the VersaClip™, allowing users to wear headset either over the ear or attached to eye /sun-glasses.
- The first to produce and sell headsets equipped with true wind-blocking capabilities (WindGuard™).
- The first to offers a voice-controlled and detachable BT headset for motorcycle helmets that allow safe and hands-free operation .
- The first to offers the currently smallest universal BT Adapter for cell phones. This little device renders virtually every standard cell phone Bluetooth capable.
- The first to offer a dual-purpose BT headset for voice-controlled use of SKYPE™.

Our products are typically very feature rich and uniquely designed. For instance, our scala-700 headset has been selected "Best Headset" among 17 leading brands, including models by Nokia, Samsung, Sony-Ericsson, Jabra, Logitech, Siemens, Plantronics and others.

Our scala-rider line of wireless headsets for motorcycle helmets continues to lead the market in this segment and is now also being offered by TomTom bundled with their new Rider Navigation System for bikers. To date, more than 250,000 scala-rider headsets have been sold world-wide.

We sell our products mainly through prime distribution channels and large retail chains. Our distribution net is spread over the US, the Americas, Europe, the Far and Middle East, and Australia. Cardo products can be found in over 50 countries.

We have learned the challenges associated with Bluetooth, audio and design from inception of this young industry. Having sold significant volumes to a wide range of customers world-wide has helped us to become very familiar with customer demands and challenging operations. Cardo maintains full-time in-house customer support teams, who can converse in English, French, Spanish, German, Italian, Russian, Turkish, and Hebrew.
